

Allowing increased vulgarity, nudity, and other indecent behavior to tv shows, particularly during "children viewing hours", is appalling and overwhelmingly irresponsible. The current content is offensive enough, even to the point that my child watches mostly shows from decades ago or others that I have previewed first. I as an adult rarely watch tv shows due to the content that in many times is shocking and reprehensible, especially since it's found on "standard" channels. Some say kids will see this content elsewhere but that is an excuse. Instead of going with the flow and further degrading society, take a stand and reverse the trend! Following the tragedy of the Connecticut school shootings last December, there was a flurry of articles released by specialists demonstrating a clear link between violence consumed by children in various media forms (tv, games) and acts of violence and a general desensitization of morals. Do not continue with this trend - be an example for good and decency!
